

Sr. no	Semester	Name of paper	Outcome
01	MA I Sem 1 st Paper	Modern Indian political thought	On successful completion of this course, students will be able to: Political ideas are basis for the strength of any political system. They reflect diverse spectrum of times in a country. India is no exception to this. The course on Indian Political Thought provides an opportunity to a student to know the political ideas in ancient, medieval and modern periods reflecting India's diversity, pluralism in social, political and economic spheres. The ideas contain classical as well as modern approaches to the issues in existence in the Indian society. These ideas aim at realizing socio-political transformation. The ideas of modern Indian thinkers also resemble western political ideas also. At the same time they reflect a critique of older native system that had been in existence for centuries and articulate the ideals of equality and justice.
02	MA I Sem 2 nd paper	Comparative Politics	After the successful completion of this Course, the students will be able to: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. To know the comparative political process . 2. To know the various methods comparative political process . 3. To understand the comparative political process. 4. To know the importance comparative political process . 5. To know the various methods to the study of comparative political process. 6. To understand the process and method comparative political process .
03	MA I Sem 3 rd Paper	Politics of Maharashtra	After the successful completion of this Course, the students will be able to: This course intends to introduce students to an in-depth study of politics in one State Maharashtra. Therefore, students are expected to understand both the historical evolution of Maharashtra's politics and different analyses of politics of the state. It is expected that the students will situate the politics in Maharashtra in three contexts One, the historical context of the region itself, two, the all India context and three comparative context of other states. This approach will help the students in distinguishing between the special and normal features of state's politics.
04	MA I Sem 4 th Paper	Public administration	After the successful completion of this Course, the students will be able to: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. To introduce administration . 2. To know the importance public administration. 3. To know the characteristics public administration.
01	MA II Sem 1 st Paper	International Relation	On completion of this course, the student will be able to: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. To study the international relations . 2. To know the new trend in international relations. 3. To introduce the international relations . 5. To study the arms control and disarmaments . 6. To know the crisis and co-operations . 7. To introduce the dependency theory . 4. Information about relations between india and U.S.A. 5. Information about relations between india and china. 6. Information about relations between india and Pakistan , india and U.N.O , Kashmir issue , disarmament , treaties about disarmament.

06	MA II Sem 2 nd paper	Western political thought	On completion of this course, the student will be able to: The course gives an introduction to Political Thought processes and Theory making in the West. From the Greek Political thinkers to down the ages including Utilitarians, this course introduces the student to the richness and variations in the political perceptions of Western Thinkers. It provides a foundation to students of Political Science in familiarizing themselves to the Thought & Theory of Western Philosophy. It particularly focuses on the evolution of idea and institution of State in the West. It covers ancient, medieval and early modern thinkers
07	MA II Sem 3 rd Paper	Political sociology	The course introduces students to the dynamics between Sociology & Political Science and explains the mutual impact of Political Science and Sociology in influencing Politics & Society. The course introduces important concepts and theories that deal with the subject. It focuses on nature of political power, the cultural dimension of politics, dynamics of political change, the manner in which political power intersects with social structures, and the determinants of political upheavals and revolutions.
08	MA II Sem 4 th Paper	Research methodology	The course provides Social Science research perspective to the students. It offers various research methods (both qualitative and quantitative) used in Social Sciences by drawing upon a range of theoretical and empirical research questions that are prevailing in Social Sciences. The theoretical aspects of the course will comprise an exploration of various theories, concepts and terms that are part of the Research Methodology. The empirical aspects will provide a broad understanding of various research methods and techniques, besides dealing with the practical realm of research
09	MA III Sem 1 st Paper	Indian Democracy and Political Process	This course emphasizes on processes such as Party Politics, Electoral Politics, Identity Politics and so on. The course opens up the debate on nature of the Indian State to understand political process. The course maps the Indian Political process with major issues such as Communalism, Extremism, Regionalism and issues revealed to autonomy. It also attempts to capture the changing State- Civil Society relations. The course also discusses small parties that emerged in the context of rise of civil society. Another major development that occurred in the political process has been a significant change in the leadership and its association with media. The leader centric politics and its association with media has become a ubiquitous phenomenon across the country. The course is also sensitive to the factors that led to intense competitive electoral politics. The course runs through the perspective that the Indian Political Processes should be understood in the way that the sphere of politics expanded so as to incorporate the aspirations of marginal groups. The institutions and processes have grown enormously with the rise of civil society, to enable the expansion of Indian Democracy. The development of Indian political processes can be seen broadly in two phases, in the first phase we experience the dominant presence of the Indian state emerging from its welfarism and in the second phase we experienced the Indian state undergoing a radical transformation with the emergence of private market and the civil society. The course is sensitive to the complexities of the Indian Politics in the post globalization and also the expansion of Indian Democracy. Thus the course expects to be taught in the broad framework thus far outlined
10	MA III Sem 2 nd paper	Pressure Groups and Social Movements	This course has been taught for long in the department. The course content has undergone many mutations along the changing nature of the social movements. It covers from the conventional forms of social movements to the present identitarian movements, from class-based peasant movements to the present farmers movements. The is sensitive, not only to processes of the movements, but also to the ideological frameworks of them- Leftist,

			Liberal and identitarian. The Corse is designed to cover most current developments in civil society, state, economic spheres
11	MA III Sem 3 rd Paper	International Law	This course is an introductory course on International Law for Political Science students. It introduces the basic concepts that a student should know about the international dimensions of law, as an extensions of International Relations. It aims to provide the necessary knowledge to understand the limitations and potentials of international law in the context of the globalised international relations. The objective is to make students conversant in international law and able to develop a critical appreciation when confronted with the reality. The learning outcomes by the end of the course are: 1). Understand the basic doctrines and concepts of International Law; 2). Critically discuss the limitations and potentials of International Law; and 3). Analyse contemporary international issues from the perspective of international law.
12	MA III Sem 4 th Paper	Diplomacy and Foreign Policy	India is an emerging power trying to influence the events in the international system. Due to the accelerated economic development and growth rate, it has been attracting the attention of both global powers and smaller powers. This is the result of sustained effort that has been made since independence. At the time of her nationalist movement against British imperialism, India was one of the few countries in the world to view her independence struggle as a part of the global trends of anti-colonialism and anti-imperialism. After independence, her foreign policy was designed to forge friendly relations with all nations irrespective of their ideology, to realize and promote her national Interests. In the subsequent years these principles have remained the bed rock of her foreign policy in spite of different pulls and pressure both from within and outside. A student of this course studies India's Foreign Policy; its determinants; the role played by different institution in the policy formulation as well as implementation. Further, the student evaluates India's relations with neighbours as well as with global powers. Critically, the course provides a comprehensive understanding of India in the global theatre. It provides greater scope for employment in the policy planning divisions of Ministries as consultants and researchers.
13	MA IV Sem 1 st Paper	Modern Political Ideologies	This Course is meant to acquaint students with the character and trajectory of modern political ideologies. It seeks to clarify the key differences between ideological and other modes of thought, and to introduce debates such as End of Ideology and End of History. More specifically, the course serves as an introduction to the distinctive doctrines and variants of major ideologies, and to the role the latter play in contemporary politics.
14	MA IV Sem 2 nd paper	State Politics In India	The Course will familiarize the students with existing diversities among states in India and the need for addressing important issues of development and governance in the contemporary Indian politics. The changing role of primordial identities like caste and tribe along with power and participation will sensitize them towards the need for both social and political inclusion. Moreover, the contemporary challenges of liberalization and globalization will make students understand the need for looking local governance from global perspective and global governance from local perspective.
15	MA IV Sem 3 rd Paper	Human Rights : Problems and Prospects	This course is aimed at introducing the basic idea of Human rights; equip the student with an ability to distinguish between human rights, fundamental rights and also between individual rights and group rights. The course operates at two levels: it discusses human rights in the context of global political order and secondly, discusses the implementation of human rights in the context of rights movements in India.
16	MA IV Sem	Globalization and Its Impact on the Political System	Globalization phenomenon, as an inescapable process, has influenced many scopes of human life. This phenomenon with its superpower of influence has created new and different age than the past. Among individual and social various scopes of human life, the culture and politics have been more

	4 th Paper		influenced by globalization. The cultural scope, as a most basic, general, widespread and vital of individual and social property of mankind, has been more influenced by globalization that the politics.
--	-----------------------	--	------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------